Sorry, I got busy with other stuff and forgot about this, this is a significant lift because of the older stuff. This information spans across 3 systems, including Filemaker. If the stuff we've already put out there is not enough, then I'd say we let's ask him to submit a FOIA request so I can buy some time to do this. I've pulled the newer data in the DB that's been parsed out. The rest of it requires more effort, so I think asking them to do more as well is reasonable.

Hi guys. This is a follow-up question from someone was looking for the recall summaries we used to post. I responded but he still wants more. Is there some way he can download stuff from Qlik app?

Thoughts?

Hello Holly,

Thank you for your reply.

Could you, despite not producing these reports, inform about:

- the dates of product recalls after 2009
- and for each recall, the brand of car involved, the number of cars affected, type (Voluntary or non-voluntary) and the problem detected (At least the date, car brand and number of cars affected).

We don't need the reports as long as you give us a database with this information. Probably you have this information because you make reports where this information appears in an aggregated form.

Thank you very much for your support.

Kind regards,

Pedro Correia

Hello Pedro. I apologize for the delay in responding.

We no longer create and post those summaries. However, all of the recalls of light duty vehicles from 2010 MY to present can be found on our website: <https://www.epa.gov/recalls/emissions-related-recalls-light-duty-cars-and-trucks>.

If you have any further questions, please let me know.

Regards,

Holly

Dear Sirs

Please allow me to ask again if you can help me get or where can I get “the Summary of Emission Related Recall and Voluntary Service Campaigns Performed on Light-Duty Vehicles” reports from 2010 until 2021? Since I already have your previous report from 1991 to 2009. It is a very important to have those missing years to finish my academic investigation.

I would appreciate very much your collaboration.

Kind regards,
